

Hash Trash – April 10th 2010

This was a notable hash for any number of reasons:

- The first Saturday rain in months – the constant rain and the low lying mist ensured everyone got wet through. Very few moans were heard however as most of the runners seemed to appreciate the cool after the recent spell of incendiary runs.
- The location of the ‘On’ – this was at the Wilson Hall Community Center – a facility that the locals can be proud of.
- Lessons to be learned - ‘now we are approaching the rainy season, future hares should note the need for cover’.
- The Gorgeous Hares – say no more
- The run itself – started with the hares pointing the way and asking us to “stay together”. This is sometimes difficult to do unless, as in this case, some of the front runners can be coaxed along false trails such as the one that lead to the ‘On In’! Minor hiccoughs were however soon forgotten as the proper trail lead through some great Hash countryside. The highlight, at least for the scribe, was the 3 super gullies through which most of us meandered. I say most because some of more unfortunate hashers decided to shortcut these wonders and link up down trail (I could single out Balloon Man as leader of one of these miscreants – but I won’t). Two other features worthy of note were (i) a plus - the magnificent stone arches carrying a road across the third gully and (ii) a negative – the garbage along the way – how can anyone neatly bag garbage and then carry it down a cart track rather than simply leaving it out for the bin men to collect?
- The chat between two of our more prominent Trollops. In this case Cheryl and China Brush found time to discuss the merits of hard and not so hard. Cheryl was first heard to exclaim that she much preferred it “solid and hard” only to be berated by China Brush who expounded on the benefits of having it a little more giving as long as it was wet. Both girls at least agreed that excessive dryness was a real turn off so I suppose the recent wet spell has improved both of their lives?

Downs Downs:

- Aiding and Abetting: Marcia and Norm for holding hands in the gully.
- Deliberate short cutting: Haggis and Francie for daring to bare all on the top (or almost all).
- Negligence of Duties by Hares: Not enough mud, not enough trees, fog, rain, aromas.
- Negligence of Duties by Hounds: Ralf Luther for not seeing well placed dots (again!)
- Hash Heresy: Jacky for impersonating our own ‘Red Riding Hood’

- Suzuki award: Colin and Patsy for taking the bus going to Gall Hill Community Center instead of the Hash and having to be rescued by the R.A. himself.
- No Poofers: David Aitkenhead for showing off his scarred groin to the men in the hash.
- More trollops: Francie for falling with Haggis on top of her.
- Virgins: Thomas S., Amy and Laura B., Johannes L., Clive W, Kelly C.
- Hash Shit: John DaSilva for bringing a Virgin in a black top and not accepting to contribute as a Jury as he thought he had nothing to add.
- Celebration run: Ralf and Lidia for 14 Years of Marriage bliss.
